ALEX R GLASS DESIGN NOMINATED BEST NEWCOMER AT PULSE

Peacock Bowl by Alex R

Alex R is an up and coming designer-maker who works predominantly in glass. She will be exhibiting in the Launchpad area at Pulse 2007 for the first time and has just been nominated for Most Promising Newcomer at Pulse. On her stand LP28 you will see a selection of her beautiful kiln formed glass vessels as well as some fabulous illuminated glass creations, suspended from wall and ceiling.

Alex creates glass which is opulent and seductive, often with a bold use of colour. Intricate surfaces and textures are the signature style of this glasswork. A perfect example of this is her latest product, the Peacock Bowl. Redolent of Art Nouveau imagery, the peacock feather motif and the handpainted detail in gold lustres lend these glass vessels an air of luxury. The original Peacock Bowl is a large vessel, substantial in both size and weight (400mm diameter x 80mm,). At Pulse Alex will launch a smaller version of the Peacock line (200mm diameter x 40mm), the baby brother to the Peacock bowl.
